

Huang Bingliang (黄堆梁)

Hefner Fellow: Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, Singapore. Master in Public Policy Program, 2005/2006

Huang Bingliang is presently a staff member with the Protocol Division acting as an interpreter and planner for incoming foreign delegations, and has worked in many capacities with the Xinjiang Foreign Affairs Office.

Bingliang has worked as Attaché with the Chinese Embassy in Papua, New Guinea, focusing on educational and cultural affairs and received the Exemplary Public Servant Award for his outstanding excellence in foreign service. Bingliang holds a Bachelor of Arts in English Language from the University of Xinjiang, China.

Bingliang graduated from Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy's Masters Program, in 2006. He hopes to expand into the cultural exchange front, both domestic and international, and provide the necessary leadership and administration to various public institutes extending from governmental departments to NGO's and many other non-profit agencies in China.

COMMENTS: "The Hefner China Fund is a good initiative, which will promote better understanding and communication between foreign nations, particularly China and the United States, by providing increasing influence through the Fund's beneficiaries. This valuable opportunity to have exposure to a more open and elevated platform of discussion and the rapid flow of information and idea exchanges will further strengthen my skills, reshape my views on current issues and future considerations, and assist me through new challenges."
